

Picados Unidos

by Mero Cocinero Karimi

Any time there's people divided, or someone says that we should not be unified, I always make this dish. It brings people together. It's a traditional Guatemalan dish, and some people say that it even was eaten at the end of the Guatemalan Civil War.

Elements

2 bunch Rabanos (radishes)
2 limes or lemon/lime juice
2 roma tomatoes
1 medium yellow onion
1 pkg/bunch of fresh mint.
salt
1 bag of tortilla chips

Tools

Knives
2 Cutting boards
bowls
Your hands!

Process:

Dice everything. (Many time to create union, you have to cut things up to a unit that will allow for things to come together.)
Mix everything with your hands on 2nd cutting board, adding salt and lemon last.
Your final mix should have less onion. The perfect blend comes with time and practice.

For best results, make this recipe with at least 2 other people, all of you using your hands together!
